The OA publication process

Under the agreement with the Academic Publishing Group, researchers from EISZ member institutions have the opportunity to publish Open Access papers.

The agreement applies to the specified Hybrid and Gold OA journals and the copyright is licensed under Creative Commons CC-BY and CC-BY-NC-ND.

Researchers are exempt from paying publication charges (APC).

Submitting a publication

The corresponding author submits his/her manuscript to the scientific editors via the online interface or by e-mail.

Authors can choose from the following journals for OA publication:

The links contain a detailed description of the upload process and the contact details of the person responsible.

Peer review

The scientific editors invite unbiased reviewers with expertise in the subject to give their opinion on the relevance of the research, the weight of the findings and whether the manuscript is well written.

Based on their recommendation, the Editor-in-Chief decides whether to accept the article for publication.

Once the article has been accepted, the Author is required to enter into a licence agreement.

Signing of the licence agreement

In order for an accepted article to be published, the author shall sign a licence agreement authorising the publisher to publish it for the first time. The form at the link below should be filled, signed and sent to the Publisher.
